

LARRY D. RUBIN

Chairman, The American Society / Managing Partner, DHR International

Mr. Rubin is the leading American voice in Mexico and advocate pertaining to Mexico-U.S. relations and U.S. immigration reform for almost 15 years, continuously being interviewed by media in both countries. He serves pro-bono as the President & Chairman of The American Society, which represents the two million Americans living in Mexico. He is Managing Partner Mexico of DHR International, a leading Chicago based executive search firm and where he focuses on Board appointments and top executives, previously was a leader at Spencer Stuart. He has also served as the CEO & Executive Vice President for the American Chamber of Commerce where he worked for U.S. business interests close to a decade. Prior to this, he was the Managing Director for American Airlines in Mexico. He is a professor in Universidad Anahuac, a major Mexican university where he received his B.A. in business administration. He is also in the board of United Way and Habitat for Humanity. Because of his strong advocacy regarding immigration and Mexico-U.S. relations, he has been awarded 3 doctorates "honoris causa".

